1.0 POLICY STATEMENT

1.1 POLICY DECLARATION

Wawasan Open University (WOU) is committed to share its intellectual property with the education and learning community within the framework of its Open Educational Resources (OER) Policy

1.2 POLICY OBJECTIVES

The objectives of WOU Open Licence policy are to:

- a) delineate the extent of sharing of WOU intellectual property
- b) protect WOU intellectual property from abuse/plagiarism
- c) prepare all required guidelines and inform all staff on Open Licence and its implementation
- d) establish the points of authority of implementation of Open Licence

2.0 DEFINITIONS

2.1 Open Licences:

are not an alternative to copyright. They are public licences that allow anyone worldwide to use a copyrighted work without necessarily having to pay a fee or royalty or ask permission as long as one adheres to the conditions specified in the licence. It is only if a person desires to use a work in a way other than that specified in the licence that permission needs to be sought from the copyright holder.

Over the past decade, there has been a movement towards creating more freely accessible materials and documents. This is particularly in the light of advances in digital technologies and the internet, where works can be made accessible to a much larger group of people on different continents.

Open licences were created to make it easier for a creator to share works freely with the public.

An open licence is any licence that applies to copyrighted content that allows any person to reuse that content without asking for prior permission. Open licences apply some rights reserved status to a work, and so they fall between copyright and public domain (pd)

2.2 Creative Commons:
Licences

are one category of open licence. They work alongside copyright and enable you to modify your copyright terms to best suit your needs. A Creative Commons licence enables creators to distribute their content to a wide audience and specify the manner in which the work can be used while still maintaining their copyright.

2.3 Open Educational: Resources

are any educational resources, mostly digital, (including curriculum maps, course materials, textbooks, journal articles, streaming videos, multimedia applications, podcast, and any other materials that have been designed for use in teaching and learning) that are openly available for use by educators and students, without an accompanying need to pay royalties or licence fees provided the user adheres to the conditions of open license of the given resources
